Sonoco Edge Boards

In today's fast-paced manufacturing and supply chain environments, ensuring the safe delivery of products while maintaining sustainability is critical. Sonoco's edge boards offer an ideal solution for protecting goods with minimal environmental impact. Designed by our teams to meet the rigorous demands of modern logistics, their numerous benefits make them the preferred choice for businesses that want to increase efficiency and elevate sustainability.

Superior Product Protection

Sonoco's edge boards keep products damage-free throughout the manufacturing and supply chain. Their robust design ensures excellent stacking strength, crush resistance and cushioning protection, making them ideal for long-distance transportation and challenging conditions, including high humidity.

► Enhanced Stacking and Handling

Sonoco's edge boards support the efficient stacking of more units while maintaining the structural integrity of the load. Additionally, Sonoco offers a variety of lengths and profiles that suit different applications and develops customized printing solutions to meet specific customer needs.

► Versatile Applications

Sonoco's edge boards are suitable for protecting stacked consumer goods like processed food, fruit and vegetables as well as direct protection of furniture, building materials, household appliances, fragile glass products and many others. Their flexibility and strength make them an excellent choice for keeping various items safe during storage and transit.

Enhance product protection, achieve sustainability targets and reduce operational costs by integrating our edge boards into your packaging strategies.'
